The Greater Huntsville Section kicked-off its celebration of 2018 Engineers Week (E Week) with a social on February 18 at Bar Louie in Huntsville. The event kicked off the section's slate of activities to commemorate E Week that culminated with the annual DiscoverE banquet later in the week. Before jumping into the week's schedule, section members arranged to meet for some socializing and camaraderie to celebrate our profession and our industry.

Eleven members and guests of the Greater Huntsville Section met at Bar Louie on Sunday evening to raise a toast to the engineering profession and the AIAA.

Section member Michael Dunning donated a Meccano Flight Adventure Model Set 10 Model Set for a door prize. Tammy Statham won the prize by correctly answering an unusual but relevant math problem

The evening was an enjoyable and a fitting way to kick-off the section's commemoration of E Week 2018.
