

AIAA Goes on a Huntsville Ghost Walk

By Tracie Prater

The AIAA Greater Huntsville Section went on a guided Ghost Walk of Downtown Huntsville on October 17th. This tour featured stories from Huntsville's haunted past and highlighted the houses in the Old Town Historic district. The 1 ½ hour walking tour included tales from Walker Street, the ghost in the courthouse, and the murder of Judge Thomas Lawler. The tour was led by Jacqueline Procter Reeves, a Huntsville historian, past president of the Madison Historical Society, and author of 15 books on the region. This was the 2nd year AIAA members have participated in the Huntsville Ghost Walk.
